QUARTERLY COMMENT

Q4 saw the Fed signal a shift in policy rates, with expectations of three 25 basis points interest rate cuts in 2024, predicting a "soft landing" for the US economy in December. This marked a departure from the previous stance of 'higher for longer,' particularly considering the recent inflation print of 3.1% year-on-year. Markets rallied off the back of this development as global bonds and equities rallied. Over the quarter developed market equities posted a 11.1% return, emerging market equities returned 7.9%, and global bonds yielded 8.6%, all in US$ terms. Gains were further elevated in Rands as the ZAR weakened a further 2.7%. South African markets also benefitted from the positive sentiment as equities gained 8.2%, outperforming MSCI EM Index. The 10-year SA government bond yield decreased to 9.8%, resulting in an 8.1% gain for the quarter and a 9.7% annual return. The historic positive correlation between bonds and local listed property returned with the anticipation of rate cuts landing well with leveraged property companies. The ALPI outperformed all asset classes, generating a 10.7% total return for the year, mostly backloaded in Q4 where the asset class gained 9.9%.

All Local and global components contributed positively. A strong recovery from the Momentum local equity smart beta equity construct delivered the largest contribution to returns, particularly the Momentum Quality Smart Beta Fund. Globally, the Momentum Sustainable Equity Fund was the biggest contributor to returns. Against this backdrop the Managed Risk Fund added a healthy 6.20% for Q4, bringing the 12-month return to 11.88%.

PORTFOLIO MANDATE

To achieve the desired investment outcome, all combinations of asset classes are considered and an optimum allocation is selected to achieve this objective with a high degree of certainty. The expected returns of the various asset classes are enhanced through the appropriate selection of factor-based investment strategies. The risk of exposure to losses in the short term is continually managed by maximising diversification to asset classes, strategies and investment managers.
